

Mrs Henson

Department Leader for Art

Welcome to Crossley Heath!

Hello there! I'm Mrs. Henson, and I'm department leader of the Visual Arts department at Crossley Heath and for the past 13 years, I've had the privilege of being a Yr7/8 form tutor at this fantastic school! Seeing young minds explore their creativity and blossom as artists has been incredibly rewarding.

This school truly is a friendly and welcoming place. There's a genuine sense of community here, and everyone is always ready to lend a helping hand. As your form tutor, you can expect to see me (almost) every day – but I'm much more than just a face you'll see regularly.

Together, we can make your time at Crossley Heath a success, both academically and personally. Let's create something amazing together!

About Me!

Outside of school, I'm a huge bookworm (aiming for 50 books this year, wish me luck!), and I love capturing moments through photography. When I'm not getting lost in a good story or playing with my camera, you might find me baking up a storm, practicing yoga, or lacing up my running shoes.

I'm here to support you in all aspects of your school life, from helping you stay organized and on top of your workload to offering a listening ear if you're facing any challenges, big or small. Whether it's finding your way around, navigating a friendship issue, or simply needing a pep talk before a big presentation, my door is always open.
